Spiritual Perspectives on Death & Dying

BERNICE H. HILL, Ph.D.

Bernice H. Hill, Ph.D. is a Jungian analyst who has been in private practice in Boulder, Colorado for over thirty-five years. She is a member of the International Association for Analytic Psychology (Zurich) and until her retirement was a senior training Analyst for the C.G. Jung Institute of Colorado.

Dr. Hill was drawn to the work of Carl Jung because of his recognition of the unfolding of the soul's journey to a vision of its own destiny. We cannot avoid life's challenges-or the pain, chaos and fear that they bring. Beyond the turmoil and contraction that these create, however, there is the potential for growing awareness.

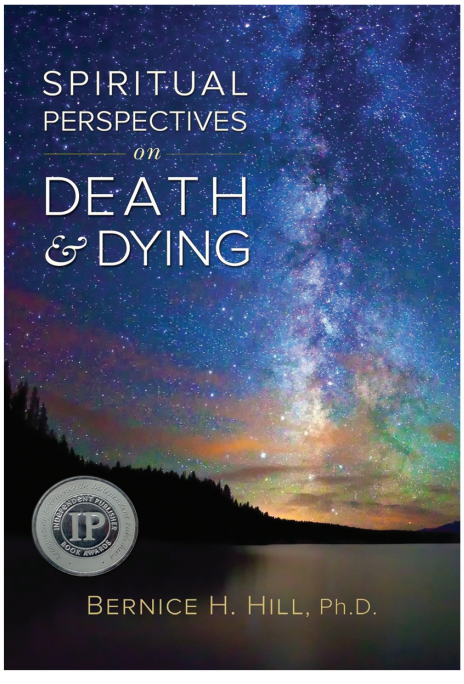
Insights from five major sources: C.G. Jung, the LSD research of Stanislav Grof, the Hindu and Tibetan Buddhist traditions and the writings of Alice Bailey. The sequence of events of the dying process, the fundamental journey of the soul and the thoughtful advice from these sources are reviewed. What unfolds is a vista of challenge and hope.



Available on Amazon, Barnes & Noble and Smashwords, in print and ebook.
